Sir:

I, Harry Lee, state the following:

1) I am knowledgeable in the Korean language and declare that the English translation attached herewith is true and correct translation of Korean Patent Application No. 2001-22428 filed on April 25, 2001.

2) On April 1, 2011, the English translation of Korean Patent Application No. 2001-22428 was filed with the USPTO. However, the filed English translation included the word "fulcrum stone," which was inadvertently introduced due to oversight, instead of the correctly translated word "hematite."

3) In order to correct the above identified error, a corrected version of the English translation of Korean Patent Application No. 2001-22428 is resubmitted herewith in accordance with the amendments to the specification presented in the response filed on April 1, 2011.

4) It is noted that “hematite” is disclosed in the corrected English translation submitted herewith instead of “fulcrum stone” which is an incorrect translation of the Korean word “대저석” disclosed in the original specification of Korean application 2001-22428 which was incorporated by reference in its entirety. Korean application 2001-22428 also discloses a Chinese name “代赭石” corresponding to the “fulcrum stone.” Applicant submits that a more accurate English translation of the Korean word “대저석” is “hematite” or “haematite,” also known as “Dai country red stone.” Therefore, no new matter has been added to the corrected English translation submitted herewith.

5) In view of the above discussion, it is believed that the instant application is now in allowable condition since all requirements suggested by the Examiner during telephonic conversation of April 26 and 29, 2011 have been met by submission of this declaration and the corrected English translation of Korean application 2001-22428.

6) All statements made herein of my own knowledge are true, and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true, and that these statements are made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both (18 U.S.C. 1001), and may jeopardize the validity of the application or any patent issuing thereon.
